

W. T. To Close Friday Night 240 Graduates

Delivering the commencement address for some 240 graduating students here at West Texas State College Friday night will be Dr. A. L. Crabb, noted author and professor of higher education at George Peabody College for Teachers.

Exercises for the summer graduates, one of the largest groups in West Texas State's history, are set in Buffalo Stadium at 8 p. m. In event of rain they will be held in the Administration Building auditorium.

Dr. Crabb, who has been at George Peabody since 1927, is the author of such well-known novels as "Dinner at Belmont," "A Mockingbird Sang at Chickamauga," and "Reunion at Chattanooga." He is editor of the Peabody Journal of Education. The speaker gave an address at West Texas State in 1948 at a dinner honoring Dr. J. A. Hill on his retirement as president of the college.

A rehearsal of the academic procession will be held at 4 p. m. for graduates, who will assemble at 7:30 p. m. for the evening services. The procession will be from the east side of the stadium, north across the field to the west side of the stadium, where the audience will sit.

Invocation will be given by Joe F. Watson, minister of the Canyon Church of Christ. President Cornette will recognize two retiring professors, Dr. B. F. Fronabarger, head of the English Department, and Dr. C. A. Pierle, head of the chemistry department. Following conferring of degrees, in which Dr. Cornette will be assisted by Dr. Walter H. Juniper, dean of WT, and Dr. James L. Russell, graduate dean, the Alma Mater will be led by Dr. Houston Bright, associate professor of music.

An informal reception for Dr. and Mrs. Crabb, who will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Cornette while in Canyon, will be held for the WT faculty at the president's residence following commencement exercises.

Members of the house party, to assist with entertaining, will be Dr. and Mrs. Juniper, Dr. and Mrs. Russell, Dr. and Mrs. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Harrell, Dean and Mrs. Mitchell Jones, Miss Ruth Cross, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Busted, Dr. and Mrs. A. K. Knott, Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Sheffy, Dr. and Mrs. Lee Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Henson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan, Dr. and Mrs. Jack Walker, and Miss Linnie Babston.

Water Rationing Is Dropped Here

"Until further notice the water rationing program can be dropped," Mayor Andy Walsh said Tuesday morning. "We also wish to take this opportunity to thank all the folks for their cooperation," the mayor said.

The rains that have come recently have made it possible for the city pumps to get a fairly good lead on the water supply. Then another thing that was taken into consideration was the fact that irrigation season for lawns and gardens is drawing to a close rapidly.

The mayor said that with the good lead the city now has on the water and with the short season left for gardens, it should not be difficult to keep the water supply up to an adequate level.

Thursday Storm Disrupts Service

Hud Prichard, head of the maintenance department of the telephone company, said Saturday that work was still going forward of repairing telephones which went out of order during Thursday evening's storm. He said approximately 500 telephones were put out of order by the storm that blew down several electric wires.

Although nearly all of the telephones were back in operation by Saturday morning there were still several that were not working. Prichard said the trouble was caused largely from electric light wires falling across the telephone wires. This burned the telephone wires inside the cable.

Where several wires were separated by the burning the places were easily found and quickly repaired. Prichard explained. He added that the last 25 telephones would be more difficult to get back in operation than the first ones because the burned places in the wires are on a smaller scale and therefore harder to locate.

NO QUORUM GRAND JURY

Buffalo Feed Fund Grows

Jack and Jill, the two buffaloes in Palo Duro Canyon, need feed and a Fort Worth oil man has started a fund through a Ft. Worth newspaper. He is Jack Danciger who opened the fund to provide the feed with a $150 contribution.

The names Jack and Jill for the buffaloes came from an out-stater, Mrs. M. O. Bannon of Everett, Washington. She sent a $1 contribution along with Dan Williams of Pampa. A Fort Worth attorney sent a donation of $10. Other persons desiring to contribute to the feed fund for the two buffaloes are asked to send their contributions to Rex Baxter at the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

The fund was started when it looked as if the buffaloes were to be removed from the state park. A number of persons felt the animals should not be removed from their natural habitat where thousands of visitors may get a glimpse of them when visiting the park. The drouth ruined the grass in the canyon and it was estimated that $60 worth of feed a month would be required to keep the bison.

Nine Men Qualify For Mail Carrier

When city delivery of mail starts in Canyon, there will be plenty of men asking for the job of mail carrier.

So far nine persons have qualified for the examinations which will likely be given early this fall. Examinations so far are set up for clerk-carrier. When the selection becomes final, the job will probably be for carrier only.

So far only a few light items have been received by the local postoffice for use of city delivery. The heavy desks and mail boxes have not yet been received.

Local Firm Gets Printing Contract

The Communication Foundation, Ltd., of Denver has designated the Warwick Printing Company to print its publications. The Canyon firm was low bidder in competition with printing concerns in several states and as far away as St. Louis. The new publishing firm was recently incorporated under the laws of Colorado with authority to publish and sell all types of materials in the field of communication.

Dr. Crannell Tolliver, head of the Speech Department at West Texas State College, is vice-president of the corporation. It is the purpose of this firm to publish practical materials of all kinds that will be valuable in improving various kinds of communication.

The first publication of this company came off the local press this week. It is a "Speech Improvement Guide" compiled by Dr. Tolliver in collaboration with Dr. Keith Case and Dr. George Vardaman of the University of Denver. This guide provides an effective means for teachers to indicate areas of speech improvement needed by their students, all of which can be indicated while the student participates in some speech experience.

Other forms of this guide are also in preparation for publication in the next few months. Also available for full use will be a "Reading Improvement Kit," a "Phonetic Inventory," and various books and booklets to help in oral communication.

Ballew Assessed 5 Years for Burglary

Bill J. Ballew was given five years in the penitentiary Monday morning for the April 30th burglary of the Houston Cafe on the Canyon highway in South Amarillo. He entered a plea of guilty and was tried before a jury in District Court Monday.

After Ballew's trial the court was recessed a week. Although several other cases remain on the docket it has been impossible to try them because some of the key witnesses cannot be located for the trials.

Last Group of Letters Published On the Problem of Negroes in City

It looks like all citizens who are interested in the Negro question have spoken their piece and got off their chest any thoughts about this problem. Therefore, no more letters will be published on the proposal which was made by a local business man to build houses for the Negroes and invite them to Canyon.

We here at The News office have taken a neutral stand. We feel that all who are interested have been given ample time to write. No more letters will be published on this problem.

"I have an idea that a lot of folks are missing the boat in their arguments for and against the Negro question," stated a well known citizen the other day. "I was quite amused to read all of the arguments against the coming of the Negro. It sounded like some of the writers thought that the Negroes were all packed up and ready to move right into Canyon. I wish to give you this slant on the problem:

"Whether right, or wrong, I will not say, it has been said that Negroes would not be tolerated in Canyon. The Negro knows this better than most of the Whites who are throwing a fit about them coming to Canyon.

"Frankly, I do not believe that any Negro family would move to Canyon under prevailing conditions, if rent-free houses were furnished there. They know where they are welcomed, and have never been known to move into a small town like Canyon with such a prevailing prejudice as exists against them here. You may use this letter, or not just as you please. But don't tear your shirts, kind friends, without some justification," writes this citizen.

I lived in Mineral Wells in the open saloon days when intoxicating liquor was sold. An election was held to determine if the saloon man could continue to serve liquor to the public. The churches, with the help of the pros, voted against liquor.

There were about 100 Negro voters; four of them voted for prohibition, and the others voted solidly for the open saloon. As you

Few Comments On Bond Issue

There is practically no opposition to the $250,000 bond issue which is proposed by the City of Canyon for the new water system.

Said a prominent citizen the other day: "We knew the bond issue was coming. The continued drouth of this summer told the story long before the City Commission asked for the bond issue. It would be useless to drill additional wells without providing a better and stronger distribution system. We may have another drouth next year, or the year following. If this is the case, those citizens who oppose a bond issue now will wish that they had been more lenient and give the city dads authority to solve the situation this year."

In order to pay off the revenue bonds, water rates must be raised a little to bring the price of water in Canyon on a comparable basis with surrounding towns. Even the proposed increase will not make Canyon's water rate excessive, and certainly the city commission is justified in this action.

The full election call is published in The Canyon News for the last time this week, and all citizens are urged to read the election notice.

A large vote in favor of the city bonds will bring down the interest rate on these bonds states those who have handled the sale of bonds in the past.

Happy Farm Boy Is Polio Victim

Byron Collins, 11-year-old sixth grader from Happy, was taken to the Plainview polio clinic Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Odie Collins who lives about ten miles southwest of Happy.

Mr. Collins said the family had been to Colorado on vacation and that Byron started complaining about feeling badly Friday afternoon. Tuesday afternoon the family noticed Byron had a high temperature so he was taken to Plainview.

Mr. Collins said it seemed to be a light case of polio, however, but they would not know until the end of the ten day observation period. Byron is the older of two children. His brother, Stanley, 8, will be in the third grade at Happy grade school.

30 Head Cattle Is Local CROP Goal

"This is the greatest cooperative Christian movement in the world," said Walter Parr Thursday morning at a breakfast meeting at the Chuckwagon Cafe in speaking on the Christian Rural Overseas Program. Parr is state director for the organization which has as its foremost purpose the job of getting food to hungry people overseas.

Thursday's meeting was for the purpose of selecting local officials and a committee to help raise a goal of 30 head of cattle or enough money to buy 30 head for distribution abroad this year.

Last year Gus Dietz of Happy was chairman of the local CROP workers, and they raised 1½ carloads of wheat. Last year CROP sent a total of $60,000 worth of goods abroad. Parr said this year's program is so arranged that people can help themselves by helping others. He said that by getting rid of surplus cattle, the cattle industry would realize a greater profit, and that by supplying these cattle to hungry people abroad suffering is thereby alleviated.

In his speech Parr pointed out three philosophies of life: first, "What's yours is mine and I intend to get it;" secondly, "What's mine is mine and I intend to keep it;" and third, "What's mine is part yours and I will share it." "It's a lot easier to send a yearling overseas than a boy," Parr quoted a friend as saying. The friend's son was in World War II and he predicted another world war if we do not combat communism in some other way. He believed CROP was the best way in which we could combat communism.

Parr informed the group that the meat would be processed free and he thought it would be shipped free although he does not have approval of the railroads as yet. The cattle contributed in this area are to be shipped from here to Amarillo on September 10.

CROP chairman of this area is Frank J. Shaller, a rancher in Canadian who is giving four yearlings to the program. Mr. Shaller said, "CROP is the Christian way of giving from the heart." He added, "Selfishness creates depression; depression creates fear, and fear creates war." The program is one of the finest ways to help spread the Christian religion, he concluded.

Cantaloupes Defy Lengthy Drouth

Although the drouth has been broken by a number of showers recently some of the Canyon folks went ahead and grew nice gardens in spite of the drouth. The rains were not in time to assist Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brotherton with their cantaloupes which they grew in their vegetable garden.

A report received at The News offices gives their cantaloupes a rather nice size, and this was attained during the drouth. One cantaloupe was reported as weighing 9½ pounds and the other 10½ pounds. Can you imagine what these people would have grown if it had rained?

Mrs. M. E. Cleavinger celebrated her 80th birthday last Friday with all her children and their families at her home except one son, Eugene, who had visited with her just two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harp are leaving Friday night for a vacation in the west.

Rain Falls All Parts County Past Week

Rain has fallen in all parts of the Panhandle during the past week.

For the first time this year, all parts of Randall county have been covered by rain during the past week, which marks the first rain that has fallen in limited areas during the year.

Even with the good fall of rain in most sections, the moisture is still spotted, and the amount of rain varies a great deal.

Heavy hail fell north of U-marger Saturday night, doing considerable damage to crops which had been irrigated.

The air was filled with electricity on both Thursday and Saturday nights, being the heaviest electric storms that the Panhandle has seen in many years.

Rain received in Canyon during the past week varied as follows: Tuesday night, .07 of an inch. Thursday night, 1.40 inches. Saturday night, .45 of an inch. Sunday night, .80 of an inch. Tuesday afternoon, .17 of an inch.

Total moisture during the past week in Canyon measured 2.89 inches. The total moisture for August measures 4.15 inches. This brings the moisture for the year up to 10.35 inches.

Some wheat farmers are getting ready to plant winter wheat in order to furnish pasture for their cattle and a cover crop for their land, which has blown a little.

One farmer said the other day that he had planted wheat only once before in August, but that it has proven to be profitable. With grass at a premium this year, he believes that the wheat will make good grazing for his cattle even though it does not make wheat next spring.

Connor Accepts Austin Position

Dr. Seymour Connor, archivist of Panhandle-Plains Historical Society for the past year, was recently named archivist of the Texas State Library by the state library commission. In this position Dr. Connor succeeds Miss Harriet Smither, a well known Texas historian and state archivist of the past 28 years. Miss Smither is retiring from the position September 30.

Dr. Connor will take over some of the state's most valuable historical documents. Many of these were collected by Miss Smither during her 28 years of service. Among these papers are the irreplaceable muster rolls of Texans who fought in the war for Texas independence and the Civil War. The new archivist is a native of Paris, Texas. He received his doctorate degree from Texas University.

Boone McClure, museum director, said Dr. Connor would not be replaced for the present.

Farmers Vote In Favor of Wheat Control

Randall county farmers joined the wheat farmers of the nation in favor of wheat acreage control for the coming year. The vote was 559 for; 35 against; in all boxes of the county.

The farmers throughout the nation supported wheat control by a majority of 80%. It was necessary for two-thirds of the voters to approve the program before it was adopted.

One farmer put the case this way: "Why should not the farmers support this measure? It will mean the difference between $2 per bushel for wheat under controls, as compared to $1 per bushel without controls."

W. H. Upchurch of the PMA office wired the returns Friday night to the State office at College Station. This office assembled all of the vote from Texas and reported the vote to Washington, where the national results were given out Saturday morning.

Charge Negro With Theft

Moses Powell, 45-year-old Negro, was arrested in South Amarillo Saturday and charged with theft over $50. Powell was released on $3,000 bond in Mrs. W. J. Fleisher's court.

The accused man made a statement to authorities concerning the charge. He said he had been working at Furr Food Store No. 22 since early March. During this time he had been taking cigarettes from the store and selling them on the streets.

Powell was apprehended by one of the officials at the store who notified Randall County authorities in South Amarillo.

A record sized cucumber was on display at The News office this week, which was raised by Mrs. Marshall Rockwell, Sr., at their farm north of Canyon.

Headrise Traps 200 in Palo Duro

Approximately 200 people were stranded by water rising in the creek at Palo Duro State Park Sunday. Before noon Monday all of the people entering the park were safe and out of the stranded areas. Several automobiles had not been removed by noon Monday and were still waiting for the water to subside.

Officials and park attendants said the barriers had been removed or driven around in order that people could get in the areas where they were stranded. The barriers had been put up in an attempt to prevent the very type of incident which took place.

No one was seriously injured in the several hours that the people were stranded. One man was washed downstream a short distance before being rescued. A car that was being pushed across Crossing No. 2 was also washed a short distance downstream.

Mr. Ambrose will not return to West Texas State, according to announcement made several weeks ago by President James P. Cornette.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

Negro Question in Canyon Is a Red Hot Issue Among Citizens

The Canyon News published a short item of interest to all readers on August 5 which certainly brought forth a volume of letters. The item of news came from a business man who advocated that Negroes be brought to Canyon to assist in home work.

Most of the letters of protest have been worded with a threat against any person who would advocate that Negroes be brought here. So far as The News is concerned, we are taking a neutral attitude. We have never lived among Negroes; never worked one of them; never have been associated with them. We do not know whether or not they would be an asset or a liability to the community.

However, we do recognize the fact that until the Negro is admitted to our public schools; to our churches; to our cafes; and other public conveniences, that they are a problem. Six Negro children in Hereford are demanding either a separate school which is comparable to the school provided for the whites, or that the schools be opened to them. So far Canyon has never faced such a problem.

With all of the opposition expressed to the coming of the Negro in Canyon, we are certain that no Negro would want to move here.

During World War II this newspaper man served on the local selective service board and several Negroes from South Amarillo were sent to the armed forces. One of them came back to Canyon after his discharge to ask whether we were of the opinion that he could operate a shoe shine stand successfully in Canyon. We advised him to look around and get the sentiment of business people, but that we doubted whether he would be graciously received. After a short investigation he decided to continue working in Amarillo.

The Supreme Court may have lowered the bars on the Negro's participation in public affairs with the whites, but the Court has not changed the resentment of the whites against mingling the whites with the colored race in a religious, educational, or business relationship.

We shall see what we shall see.

Water Situation in Canyon Is Critical, Calling For Bond Issue

Voters of Canyon will be called upon to vote for a bond issue in an attempt to settle the water issue for several years to come. The election will be held on Saturday, August 29.

It is taken for granted that the voters will approve the bond issue. As we see it, there is nothing left for us to do.

The water level is shrinking due to the continued drought and the effect of irrigation upon the city's water wells. The present wells are not able to furnish all of the water that Canyon citizens need and demand. No one could foresee the devastating effects of the drought upon Canyon homes until it was too late for the city to do anything about the solution of the problem.

The bond issue to be divided in order to secure a better price on the bond market. That is the reason that you see this clause in the official call for the election which is printed in this issue of The Canyon News. All taxpayers are advised to read the election notice and be prepared to vote for the bonds when the election is held.

President Does Right To Urge That Departments Cut Spending

The weakness of the Eisenhower argument for an increase in the national debt limit is being shown by the determination of both Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress to hold the line and force a reduction in national spending.

When Congress turned down the plea for a higher debt limit, the President stated that it would probably be necessary to recall the Congress in extra session in September. Senator Byrd of Virginia pointed out the fact that the President could hold federal spending to the minimum and thereby stay within the present debt limit.

This is the first time that the Democratic minority in Congress has turned a deaf ear on the White House. And rightfully so.

Eisenhower has sent out word to all federal departments that they must operate upon funds in sight. He is not going to either ask for an increase in the national debt, or circumvent the issues through the old system of administrative decree.

The only way to save money is to start a savings program. The Virginia Senator pointed out the fact that for the President to increase the debt limit at this time was an open invitation for all departments to see just how much money they could spend. The Democratic minority is in the saddle in the Senate and they will stay there.

We shall now see what we shall see.

Governor Shivers Is Being Urged Democratic Candidate President

While the Governors were in session, the Governor of Louisiana came up with a new one regarding Governor Shivers of Texas. He would give the Democratic nomination to Shivers in 1956, as the best qualified Democrat in the nation. He stated that no Democrat could defeat President Eisenhower if the President made the race, but this would be a good opening for a Governor from the Southwest.

While Shivers is a forceful political leader, we have our doubts about him wanting to be a guinea pig for the Democratic party. To be led into certain defeat would not help Shivers in other political campaigns.

In the meanwhile, we hear rumors that Shivers has his eye on the Governor's mansion for another term, and might ask for re-election.

Since politics are such as they are, we have no ideas as to what Governor Shivers may have in prospect. Let it be remembered that he is a politician; loves the game; and that he will likely be in some kind of a race either in 1954 or 1956.

So far as the Presidency is concerned, we have a slight idea that Eisenhower will get a tummyfull of Washington before 1956, and may use the famous words of Coolidge: "I do not choose to run."

Everyone likes an unselfish man of wealth—until they discover what made him wealthy.

Invent something to lessen work and amuse the public and your fortune is practically assured.

If You Would Live to Old Age, Better Keep Busy at Something

Just look around Canyon and you will see how rapidly this is becoming "an old persons' town."

Attend any kind of a public function, especially a funeral, and the age of those who attend will hit you as something to think about. We are getting old. Time was when this was considered a "youthful" community. This is no longer true.

What is true of Canyon, is likewise nation wide. We are rapidly aging. Living is easy here in Canyon, is the chief reason why persons live longer lives and enjoy living.

You're going to enjoy old age and all its fulfillment because of forward-looking women like Viola Perkins and the work of the E. D. Farmer Foundation for the Aged.

"You can be 'retired' from life," says Mrs. Perkins, who is chairman of the state committee on mental health of the aged for the Texas Society of Mental Health.

In the past we have "devalued" too many of our citizens at a specified age and "none of us can take that," believes Mrs. Perkins, who is also case-work supervisor for Farmer Foundation.

It's becoming more obvious daily to hard-headed business men and union leaders, as well as geriatricians, that we're going to have to revise our ideas about retirement.

"We have found that we lost a wealth of good man power and woman power when the older workers could be kept busy at less exacting skills and production go up, accordingly."

The trouble began in the depression years when we pushed out the older worker to make a place for the young bread-winner. Now we are finding that production benefits by using the skills of the older worker while training the younger one.

Quoting statistics may seem dull, but in this instance they tell a human story. By 1970, it is estimated that one out of every four persons will be 65 years of age and older. That probably means an old person in every household.

One-half of the women now 65 years of age will live to be 83, one-fourth will live to be 89 and one-tenth will live to be 93. The record of the men is not as good: One-half will live to be 80, one-fourth to be 86 and one-tenth to be 91.

That means they will have to get along by (1) family support, (2) the opportunity to support themselves, or (3) tax support.

Mrs. Perkins believes we should offer them the opportunity to take care of themselves.

She is a firm believer that the older person can't be "carried around on a satin pillow" and that their most fervent desire is to be wanted and to be contributing members of society.

She is convinced that the older person acts the same at 80 as at 20, that they are not childish unless there have been brain changes, that physiological processes will be minimized if you keep busy.

Your best insurance for a happy, healthy old age will be found developing in younger years hobbies that turn to achievement, that can become an avocation. It will be found in accepting secondary positions that give an outlet for time and talents.

A retired teacher is adding years of happiness with a handicrafts shop for youngsters. A successful business executive became a hotel clerk upon "retirement" and is having the time of his life. An engineer is considering opening a rental garment service for expectant mothers when he retires.

Mrs. Perkins finds three directions in which we must work toward happiness in old age: (1) For the current group of old persons, we can administer a palliative, help them back into the stream of living; (2) start training the group of people now middle-aged in skills for retirement years, (3) begin now with the young married couples and their babies in preparing them for later years.

"Aging is a part of living. We begin to age as soon as we are born. We've got to get out of our minds the fear of aging."

NEA Means More Than 1 Thing—Newsmen Called for Service

NEA stands for two things in this college town. NEA may mean National Educational Association, to which a number of college professors belong, and which is attended from time to time by our educators.

In this instance NEA stands for National Editorial Association. The Canyon News has been a member of this organization of country publishers for 10 to 15 years, but we have attended only one session. Frankly we would rather attend a meeting of the Panhandle Press Association, where we know personally most of the publishers, than to be a knot on the big stick of NEA.

At any rate, we have been selected a member of the Community Service committee of that organization. We doubt very much whether the chairman of that committee, E. A. Reach of Siler City, (N. C.) Chatham News will ever call a meeting of his committee. At least we have no idea of ever hearing from him or attending any meeting that he might call, unless the meeting is held in Canyon or some nearby town.

No need to go out and buy a size larger hat because of this "honor (?)".

Liquor Ads? Yes, of All Things—Liquor Ads in Your Newspaper

What would you think if you opened this week's issue of The Canyon News and read a large liquor ad?

Yes, we know what you would think, but in spite of the fact that we turned down such a luscious line of business today, you will not see liquor advertising in this paper so long as you help us keep Randall county in the dry territory.

There was a slight temptation to fall for this advertising when it is apparent that advertising from other lines has declined. Personally we are of the opinion that merchants are making a serious mistake to fail in their advertising when business gets a little slack.

But we are not taking these ads, regardless of any temptation to fill holes in pages which in former months have been filled with attractive local ads.

Trading in Canyon is an obligation of every good citizen of Randall county, whether you believe it or not.

The fast-talking, easy-thinking individual is the person who puts the "vice" in advice.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar I. Smith of 511 Sixth Street, Canyon, celebrated their Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary Monday, August 10, 1953.

A family reunion in honor of the occasion was held at their home in Canyon Sunday, August 9. Present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Foreman of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Smith and children, Marilyn and Steve of Marlin, Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Smith of Guyton, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Lynne Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Schepic and daughter, Andria, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson and daughters, Shari Lynn and Marcia, all of Pampa.

Mrs. Sue Ragan and son, Lawrence, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Schell and son, Michael, all of Perryton; Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Foreman and sons, Auben and Olen, all of Vago Park; Mr. and Mrs. A. New Styling Highlights Campus Cashmeres

BY EDNA MILES

CAMPUS cashmeres veer away from the classic this fall and get far more styling than they've had previously.

New necklines, fine detailing and unusual trim mark the new designs, all of them in colors ranging from pastels through the deep and vivid tones.

A definite departure from the classic cut of other years is a new square neckline by Hadley. And the shawl collar, crossed over in small yoke effect, can be worn either up or down. There's also a turtle-neck sweater with lace weave in such new colors as Stewart green, Crest purple, burnt orange and cherry red.

For dressy wear, cashmeres get fine beading, bright embroidery and luxury fur collars. Two-color braid trim appears on a box jacket to outline the open front and sleeves. A "baby shirt" cashmere has hand piped edging on neckline, front band and sleeves.

New in this collection for fall and winter is a lace pure cashmere stole in a choice of colors for use as an evening wrap, daytime cover-up or at-home wear. This folds small for easy packing in a suitcase corner.

Ribbing outlines neck, sleeves and hem in this cashmere sweater with a squared-off neckline.

This campus sweater in cashmere gets a new shawl-collar treatment.

Shower Honors Ann Wortham

On Monday evening Miss Ann Wortham, bride-elect of Bob Huddleston of Amarillo, was honored by Mrs. Gordon Williams with a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Ray Hawkins.

The honoree wore a white dress which was complimented with a white carnation corsage tied with a blue ribbon carrying out the bride's chosen colors of blue and white.

The table was laid with a white chiffon embroidered cloth and was centered by a beautiful bride doll with blue and white streamers with silver letters inscribed "Ann and Bob, September 1." Punch, cake, mints, and nuts were served from crystal service with Ada Glynn Wortham, sister of the bride-elect, pouring, and Carolyn Brasher, cousin of the bride, serving the cake.

June Wortham, sister of the bride, presided at the bride's register. Approximately 30 guests called and sent gifts.

McGregor Heads CROP Program

Truett McGregor was elected chairman of the local Christian Rural Overseas Program at a breakfast meeting Thursday morning. McGregor, who is head of the maintenance department at West Texas State College and also president of the Lions Club, has two co-chairmen working with him on the CROP duties. They are Roland Black, Chamber of Commerce manager, and Win Matsler, pastor of the First Christian Church.

Roland Black suggested that all 18 members present act as committeemen and assist in putting the program over. Some of the other officials elected at the gathering were Levi Cole, chairman, and Mrs. Alfred Hamblen, secretary. She is secretary of the Farm Bureau.

More specific action will be taken by the organization in the future. The goal of Randall county CROP is one carload or 30 head of cattle. Contributions of cash as well as cattle will be accepted. If you are not contacted by one of the local CROP workers you may give your contribution to Levi Cole if you desire to contribute.

Rev. A. R. Williams and family of Stafford, Kansas, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. L. E. Carter, and other relatives in Canyon and Amarillo.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There is growing Washington concern over increased business failures. With more than 700 firms a month going to the wall, failures now exceed 1950 before Korea.

Naturally, there are many differing schools of thought in Washington on the problem. Economists imbedded with Big Business reasoning, seek to sell the theory of keener competition, lack of experience or capital is major failure reason.

But facts do not agree. Normally, business failures are due to lack of trade, with retailers hit first. But in the present situation, wholesalers show biggest failure increase.

This is an important fact because wholesalers, by and large, are not shoe string operators. The very nature of the wholesaling business requires considerable capital and experience.

This condition was inevitable. There are two major reasons.

One is wholesalers must stock goods made by firms who closely control supply and prices.

But many wholesalers, instead of representing these manufacturers, find they are actually competing with the manufacturers on a different price basis.

Manufacturers are more and more putting in their own retail outlets who buy direct from factories on favored deals, and undersell the wholesaler's own customers. In other cases, big retailers are sold direct.

"The rarest stamp known," writes a collector, "is the early American Colonial." Another one seldom seen is the stamp which a writer says he is enclosing for a reply.

When You Move . . .

Keeping up with those on the move is quite a job for even an average country weekly newspaper.

When you move, PLEASE notify this paper in advance. Give us the old address: Your new address: The date that you wish the paper changed.

Every week we have a few papers which are returned, two cents due; indicating that either people have moved; without leaving an address; or failed to have their paper changed in advance. It costs a lot of money to service these subscriptions. HELP—please.

MAIL THIS ISSUE OF The News to a friend when you get through reading it. However, it will be cheaper to pay for an annual subscription to The Canyon News and have the paper mailed weekly to pay the postage every week.

For many years the Star Lumber Company has proven that quality and service make friends. That is why you will always get lumber that is the very best obtainable in any particular grade and you will find real economy in Star Lumber Company's prices, plus their friendly, helpful service. This progressive concern, which is located at 505 Jackson Street in Amarillo, is headed by Gene Klein and F. M. Lefforge.

In addition to quality lumber this popular firm carries a complete line of roofing and siding, millwork, Dupont paints, builders hardware, cement, fencing material—in fact, anything in the line of builders supplies.

When this concern was established in 1926 they made their policy top quality materials, friendly service, and fair prices, and from this policy there has been no deviation, and it is for this reason that the firm enjoys such a good volume of business.

Star Lumber Company is always glad to consult with prospective builders on their construction and remodeling problems and give the benefit of their experience and cost estimates without obligation. Three 4-H Club Boys Win Trip

Three Randall County 4-H Club boys have received word that they are district winners in the Texas Junior Leadership contest. The boys are Larry Porter, Ted Lowe, and Bob Wilkinson. The scholarship is provided by the United Gas Companies, sponsors of the Texas 4-H Club Junior Leadership program, and scholarships entitle the boys to a free trip to A&M College.

While at the college the boys will join other boys and girls from all sections of the state for a week of Junior Leadership training.

The trio will leave Canyon Sunday morning at 9 o'clock and will return one week later. At College Station they will represent the 22 counties comprising Extension District I of the Panhandle.

The United Gas Companies have sponsored this program for several years, and the Junior leaders who have been trained under this program will return to their respective counties and assume important duties in local clubs.

John Brazzil, Randall County Agent, will take the boys to College Station.

4-H Club Plans Picnic Friday

All Randall County 4-H Club boys and girls are having a joint picnic Friday night at Palo Duro Park. It is a picnic and weiner roast and it will be held at Crossing No. 1.

A rise on the creek will not affect this occasion since the group will not have to cross the creek. All parents, friends, and club members are invited to attend this function. It is scheduled to begin at 5 o'clock in the evening and continue until 9 o'clock.

Latest Rumors From Political Front of Nation

Thomas E. Dewey, Governor of New York, plans to run for a fourth term in 1954. If re-elected, he would be in the political running if Mr. Eisenhower should decide that one White House term is enough.

There is nothing to the report that Mr. Eisenhower is in anything but top physical shape.

Arthur Burns, Economic Adviser to the President, is briefing Mr. Eisenhower once a week on the business outlook. Mr. Burns lets the facts speak for themselves and does little forecasting.

Senator Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, is to be nominal leader of the more conservative Republicans in the Senate. Senator Taft's death leaves this group without very close ties at the White House, where Mr. Eisenhower tends toward the so-called "liberal" viewpoint.

President Eisenhower is breaking in Vice President Richard Nixon as an understudy, getting him acquainted with details of the top White House job. Mr. Nixon will preside at meetings of the Cabinet and of the National Security Council during the President's vacation.

John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, is credited at the White House with a bobbie in permitting his staff to let out the idea that American boys would be drafted to do reconstruction work in Korea. It was just one jump to the conclusion, disastrous politically, that Americans would be put to work in "labor battalions."

General Mark Clark, supreme commander in the Far East, is pessimistic about the prospect for a successful truce in Korea. U.S. diplomatic officials, however, are optimistic, confident that the Chinese will have trouble enough at home to keep them busy.

George Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury, is coming more and more into the line of political fire, now that he has asked for a 15-billion-dollar rise in the limit on the national debt. Democrats are prepared from now on to try to pin the label of extravagance on the Republicans.

William McChesney Martin, head of the Federal Reserve Board, may find himself out of favor with the party now in power if business goes a little sour. The Reserve Board, with its policy of somewhat tighter money, will be a convenient whipping boy when and if trouble develops.

Albert Cole, Housing Administrator, is under growing pressure to lower required down payments on houses costing $12,000 and less in order to stimulate lagging demand.

Politicians are eyeing recent farm-organization elections that indicate a tendency on the part of farmers to favor more radical leadership, now that farm prices are lower.

Martin Durkin, Secretary of Labor, had expected that the White House would send to Congress before adjournment the message on Taft-Hartley law changes that now is being disowned by the Eisenhower Administration. Mr. Durkin was surprised by the furor that followed publication of the proposed message.

Instead of a promised "build-up" of the Federal Government, there is a tendency on the part of high officials to by-pass that agency when seeking to deal with important labor disputes. Labor Secretary Durkin personally got into at least one big case.

Felix Frankfurter, Supreme Court Justice, eligible to retire on full salary, has no present intention to step down in spite of rumors to the contrary. The Eisenhower Administration is wondering how long it will have to wait before there's an opening to fill on the Supreme Court.

Governor Earl Warren of California is expected to get an offer to fill the first Supreme Court vacancy that does occur.

Storage, on and off the farm, is an aid to orderly marketing and farmers should plan and construct storage facilities if needed. This permits holding reserves of feed grain and forage for drought periods or other times when supplemental feeding is necessary or desirable.

To help prevent bloat in your cattle, (1) feed good quality hay or other dry feed before turning cows into clover pasture; (2) place a hay rack in the center of the pasture; (3) watch cows closely when first turned onto pasture so you can give them immediate treatment.

Lafayette presented the key to the French Bastille to George Washington and it may now be seen at Mt. Vernon.

England's sea power came into being with the defeat of the Spanish Armada.

Lincoln was the tallest of the U. S. Presidents.

LOOK, NO WALKING—This mailman doesn't have to walk a step on his suburban route in Toledo, Ohio. That's because he's got the first American car in 30 years that features right-hand steering. The jeep, specially built for the Post Office Department, enables the carrier to drop mail into letter boxes without leaving his seat. When put into widespread use, this design promises to save the department much in time and money.

Military Leaders Take Over the Military Services of the Nation

A question which may arise in the next year or two is the question of civilian versus military control in certain vital defense spheres. President Dwight Eisenhower has a completely new set of civilian secretaries and a new Joint Chiefs of Staff.

So the question is not one of a veteran group gaining dominance over a group of newcomers. In fact, the civilian secretaries have now been in office some months, while the Chiefs of Staff have just taken over. But the law concerning the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs has been altered, and the Joint Chiefs' staff is now pretty clearly under the control of Admiral Arthur Radford, the new chairman.

Annoyance

In some Pentagon circles the civilian secretaries have always been a source of annoyance. That is only natural in some matters, from the professional military viewpoint, and it is just this viewpoint the forefathers of the country sought to keep out of policy-making control when they provided that civilians run the armed services.

But now that there is a Secretary of Defense, and a more powerful Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman, who controls the Joint Staff (several hundred select officers), there could develop a tendency among military leaders to take over more and more of the functions of the secretaries.

Dissatisfaction

Whether the three service secretaries will be called upon to cope with this problem no one can say. However, there is already some dissatisfaction in Washington over the way military leadership operates. There are complaints that certain decisions are decided upon by the wrong people, and that the service secretaries should exert a more thorough control of their military arms.

The question is worth consideration because the taxpayer is spending over forty billions of dollars for defense this year. That's more than is being spent for everything else in the budget.

Democracy Ends When Socialism Enters a Nation

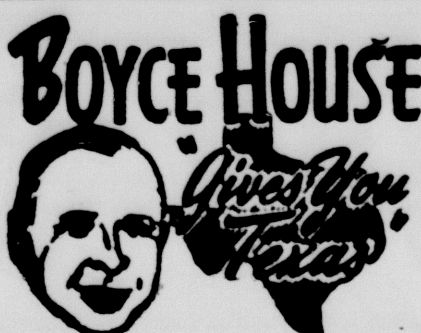

In a book entitled "The Passing of Parliament," Professor G. W. Keeton deals with some of the fruits of socialism as they have flowered in England. He points out that before they come to power socialist writers and spokesmen paint the rosiest conceivable picture of what the future may be expected to bring.

Then he contrasts the actuality with the theory in these words: "What the socialist has got, as distinct from what he aimed at, is the exact opposite of those noble aspirations. He has got a rigid mechanism, remote from indifference to public opinion, operated at a handsome loss by departmentally appointed officials with salaries as large as those ever paid to capitalist directors, with the added advantage that their losses and official expenses can be underwritten by a beneficent state."

This experience is certainly not confined to England—essentially, it is true of socialistic ventures everywhere, including the U.S.A. Socialized enterprise is, to all practical purposes, completely beyond effective control. It is wasteful and inefficient. And it almost invariably creates huge losses which all the people must help pay.

In the future, farmers may use electric lights directly in crop production, according to studies now underway by plant scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The scientists now have information on the response of different plants to a wide range of dark treatments and to various kinds of artificial light.

Dairy heifers need little or no concentrates after 12 months of age if they are fed liberal amounts of high quality legume hay and grass silage, report Purdue University dairymen. Six to eight weeks before the heifers are due to freshen, they should be fed some concentrates.

Hollywood, though some of the studios have moved to other parts of Los Angeles or beyond, is still a magic symbol for the glitter, glamour, fame, fortune, world acclaim which are summed up in the word, "movies." And Hollywood is a center of radio, phonograph records and TV.

A return visit in August (after a dozen years) revealed that the souvenir and fashion shops still line Hollywood Boulevard; the dwarf, seen in many motion pictures, still sells papers; Grauman's Chinese Theater, with its footprints in concrete of movie stars, is still there, though Sid Grauman is gone. His spirit of showmanship lives for, the Sunday afternoon, I was there, the picture was a newspaper story, "Park Row," and in the big, open-air lobby, a printing press was in operation, as was a linotype machine. In the Western Room of the Hollywood Broadway Hotel, the Cass County Boys were appearing—evidently, Texas had established a beach-head.

One of the most beautiful scenes in Southern California is Santa Monica. Behind you are mountains. You stand on a cliff, overlooking the beach; sail boats glide along, waves roll in; the infinity of ocean meets the infinity of sky.

The cliff is a narrow park a mile or more in length. There are, of course, grass, flowers and trees, of which the most remarkable is a cluster of ocean-cedar twisted into weird formations. This clump of trees no doubt was here when the Spaniards came and, before that, Indian children, likely, sat on the beaches, some of which are only a foot off the ground and level like a bench. Now the Indians are gone, and the Spaniards, too—but the cedars remain and will still be here when you and all the merrymakers of today have vanished.

But you abandon philosophy and saunter down to the pier to partake of a shrimp cocktail and a bowl of clam chowder.

Children Grow As Feet and Back Are in Daily Use

Assuring good posture and foot hygiene for children might be looked at as having the ground-work for greater bodily comfort and efficiency later.

Orthopedics is the branch of medicine concerned with the prevention of deformities, as well as treatment of diseases of the skeleton and its associated structures such as nerves and muscles. Not only orthopedists but all doctors who treat children believe in straightening out minor posture and foot defects before they become significant.

Since health experts agree that good standing posture is closely akin to "sitting pretty," children should be encouraged to "sit tall," getting them off to a good start. To sit well, it is necessary to sit squarely on the chair with the lower part of the spine against its back. A small pillow may be used to fill the hollow at the bottom of the chair if the back doesn't quite touch. The thighs should be at right angles to the body. If necessary to bend forward, it is best to bend from the hips, at the joint between the head and neck, or at both places.

Correct Shoes

In regard to foot hygiene, the selection of correct types and sizes of children's shoes is essential. Until a baby walks he needs a shoe only for protection against cold. Even as long as he walks on smooth, fairly soft surfaces such as floors, he needs no more than a soft-soled shoe. However, when he begins to play outdoors on hard cement walks and rough ground, shoe soles should be thicker but not inflexible. For the smaller child high-topped shoes are easier to keep on, but for older children low-quarter oxfords afford adequate protection and are cooler.

Parents should learn early to entrust shoe fitting to a reliable salesman who is more interested in a correct fit than in the wearability or looks of a shoe. They should allow sufficient time for fittings. Each time new shoes are bought, the feet should be measured; children's feet grow rapidly, and old shoe sizes may be entirely wrong.

Broken Bones

In the treatment of broken bones, new surgical techniques have been made possible by the development of antibiotics to prevent and fight infection and synthetic materials and metal alloys that can be left inside the body to hold broken pieces of bones together. An operation of this kind is especially suitable in the case of broken hipbone for many older patients. In the hands of experts it yields good results and often saves the patient a lot of pain and disability, time in the hospital, and days lost from work. After surgery he usually can get out of bed within several days. If any external support is necessary, it will be light. He probably will be kept from bearing weight on the affected limb for awhile but will be encouraged to exercise otherwise. The increased activity is likely to give him a better appetite, make him sleep better, and let him keep in trim muscles that otherwise might need retraining after long confinement to bed. Furthermore, he is spared the inconvenience associated with wearing a heavy plaster cast for several months.

This type of surgery is used only for certain kinds of broken bones, and in some instances not only is unnecessary but perhaps unwise. Other treatment methods use casts, frames on which the patient is placed, and traction (weights applied to stretch parts of the body).

Artificial Limbs

A patient who loses a limb can be enabled to lead as normal a life as is possible under the circumstances by being properly fitted with an artificial arm or leg and being trained in its use. To help him get the greatest benefit from his appliance, one or more of a battery of experts may be necessary, including surgeon, psychiatrist, limb fitter, physical therapist, and occupational therapist.

An apparatus which takes the place of a part of the human body is known as a prosthesis. Prosthetic experts have succeeded in making their products almost life-like in appearance and function. As an example, the "suction socket leg," developed in the last ten

CROP Workers Open Campaign With Meetings

Local workers of CROP, Christian Rural Overseas Program, met Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the Farm Bureau office to plan the procedure for raising 30 head of cattle for the hungry people overseas. Last year the workers for this organization got nearly two cars of wheat for the hungry people in foreign lands. This year some cattlemen got the idea of giving beef which would help the cattlemen and at the same time help the hungry people of other countries, so they decided upon cattle. Local chairman of CROP is W. T. McGregor.

Those attending the meeting yesterday morning were McGregor, Rev. Win Matsler, Mrs. Hamblen, Roland Black, and John Brazzil. A motion was made to approach such organizations as the Lions Club, Rotary, V.F.W., American Legion, and Randall County Junior Livestock Association, for as many beefs as they can possibly give. Churches will also be given an opportunity to contribute to the program.

A motion was also made to approach the Home Demonstration Clubs for contributions. These clubs will be asked for a cash donation of $10 per club.

It was also mentioned that letters are being sent out to workers who helped in the CROP program last year. These letters will inform the people that a meeting will be held for all officials and group captains in the American Legion Hall Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Scott with their daughter, Mrs. Roy Leavitt, of Dalhart, left Tuesday for Ava, Mo., to visit their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Scott.

Amarillo Packing Company Features Quality Products

No review of the industrial and agricultural activities in the Panhandle would be complete without mention of Amarillo Packing Co. and their Longhorn brand of dependable, tasty, tender meats which are processed and packed with the utmost care in their modern, sanitary plant which assures wholesome flavor and nutrition. This progressive concern, which is located at 1809 NE Third Street in Amarillo, is headed by E. J. Husband.

These quality Longhorn brand meats are distributed to markets, grocers, and cafes over the entire Panhandle region.

Amarillo Packing Company has been a boon to stockmen of West Texas and has afforded them a ready market for their choice cattle. They have indeed proven that it is no longer necessary for our ranchers to consign their choice cattle to far-away markets to obtain a top price, and that selling them in Amarillo will both save and make them money.

It is with pleasure in this review that we compliment E. J. Husband as well as all the other officers and employees of the Amarillo Packing Company for their high quality Longhorn brand beef, pork, hams, sausage, bacon, and other choice meats.

They have indeed made a liberal contribution to our rich trade area and merit the patronage of our many readers and we wish for them continued success which they so richly deserve.

Freedom Of Choice

You must join and pay dues to a labor Union, or else give up your job—that is a compulsion which is now being imposed upon hundreds of thousands of "free" American citizens.

Within the last few months virtually all the railroads of the country have agreed with the railroad Unions that all employees must become Union members and start paying dues and fees to the Unions and that those who are not willing to do so shall be promptly discharged, no matter how long or how competent they may have been working at their jobs. The same thing is widely spreading in other industries.

That this is as wrong as it could possibly be, seems beyond argument or question. The right and freedom to join a labor Union is no longer denied anywhere in this country. It is protected by Federal law. But the corresponding right and freedom to stay out of a Union is not so protected and is now becoming rapidly extinguished in this, our "land of liberty."

The matter is one that deserves a great deal more attention than it has generally been receiving. Thousands of employees the country over, who are not willing to join the Unions, have petitioned and protested, but so far in vain.

If this be not a form of tyranny, then what is it? It is a denial of individual freedom of choice. It is a levy of tribute, in behalf of private organizations, for the privilege of working and earning a living. It is an oppression of minorities and a compelled allegiance, which arouses natural and bitter resentment. It moreover creates a condition of monopoly, which in the long run will inevitably work to the injury of employers, employees and the general public alike.

The principle at stake is simple, basic and vital. Individual liberty means freedom to join a lawful organization and likewise freedom not to join. It means the one as truly as it means the other!

A bill has recently been introduced in Congress which would assure to every American citizen that he has a right to join a labor Union or not to join, as he may see fit, and that he shall not be subjected to any requirement or compulsion in either direction. This certainly ought to be the law in this land. It is to be hoped that those who share this conviction will so declare themselves to their representatives in Congress.

New Owners for Trading Post

Horse trading days are not over, they have just changed the style and form. In modern horse trading the horses are in the precision engine of a tractor or some other farm machinery. Canyon has a special place for this type of trading and it has as simple a title as the name trading itself; it's the Trading Post, north of town on Highway 60.

A little over a month ago the present owners took over the place. They are farmers themselves, and therefore know the needs of the farmer. They are Albert Byars and E. W. Shugart. In their complete shop they do repairs on tractors and farm machinery, in addition to welding and motor tune-up work.

At present the two men do not have a complete line of equipment but plan to build it up. Both men have been in the vicinity of Canyon for many years.

Chinese Student in Talk at Rotary Club Luncheon

C. Y. (Sammie) Hon, Chinese student of W. T., made an informative talk Tuesday at the Rotary Club luncheon. He refused to discuss the political situation, but humorously referred to the difference between China and America.

Hon has lived here since 1949 when he came to study medicine. He will return to China after finishing his work.

China was described by the speaker as an ancient nation, with 480 million population, and an area three times that of the United States. It is 7,000 miles away by sea.

Agriculture is the principal business of the people, with exports of linseed oil, tea, cotton and silk. The natural resources have barely been touched. There is an abundance of coal and oil yet to be explored.

There are many religions, with Christian standing third, but only touching 1% of the people. The various dialects and languages is the reason for this. Hon stated that he fled before the Jap invasion to another city than his own home town only to find four different dialects spoken.

The educational system is about the same as in this country. Tuition is charged for all pupils, with about 65% of the children attending school. If one fails in one subject he must remain in the same grade, taking all of the subjects over again.

The teachings of Confucius has prohibited women from major places in society and government. The people are slow in their actions, thoughts and believe in taking their time. Hon recommended this to Americans. English is a required subject in all schools. The only liquor is in the black market.

Latest Rumors From Political Front of Nation

John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, was speaking on his own and not for the White House when he expressed the opinion that U.S. would go back to war if Communist China failed to return all Americans held prisoner. Nobody at the White House is talking war in event of truce violations.

Orders from Washington, rather than decisions in the field, resulted in quick return to the Communists of Chinese prisoners wanting to go back, while the Communists were returning Americans in a dribble.

Gen. Mark Clark, U. S. Commander in the Far East, was prevented from nailing down more precisely the terms of prisoner exchange by direct orders from higher up. Washington feared that a truce might be missed if U. S. was too finicky about the return of American boys.

American military officials are worried over the chance that Chinese Communists may hold some high-ranking American officers and try them as "war criminals," or force them to refuse repatriation and engage in propaganda activities.

President Eisenhower is disturbed by the growing evidence of weakness on the part of France. The French, who have difficulty getting their internal affairs in order, are the cornerstone for U.S. defense in Europe and Africa.

A line of political fire may open before long on the number of aides to Mr. Eisenhower who have had past connection with the United World Federalists movement. This is a movement for world government to which the U.S. would give up some of its sovereignty.

Admiral Arthur Radford, Chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, has assurances from the President that American policy will put more nearly equal emphasis upon the Pacific in the future and will be less completely oriented toward Europe.

President Eisenhower personally refereed some disputes over terms of changes in the Taft-Hartley law that almost were proposed to Congress just before its adjournment. The President is said to have decided most of the arguments in favor of Martin Durkin, Secretary of Labor, who represented the union viewpoint.

Unless all signals at the White House are mixed, the present administration will spend a good deal more than the 60 billion dollars it had set as a tentative goal for the year to start next July. Mr. Eisenhower's budget for the present year is 74 billion dollars. Hints are that it might get down to 67 billions for the following year.

Joseph Dodge, Budget Director, is wielding a sharp ax on ordinary kinds of Government spending. Mr. Dodge, however, is able just to scratch the surface of the real spending which centers in foreign aid and military. Mr. Dodge also lacks authority to cut subsidies.

Senator Harry Byrd, Virginia Democrat, is being thanked by some Republican colleagues for blocking President Eisenhower's request for a higher ceiling on the national debt. Republicans in some States say that a debt-ceiling increase would be political poison in their States.

Earl Warren, California Governor, is under consideration for a high post in the Eisenhower Administration if a Supreme Court vacancy does not open. The President is impressed by the California Governor and wants him in the Administration.

Word is being passed to some Government employees that their jobs can be saved if they have letters of support from their Representatives or Senators. Cuts in Government employment are growing in size.

Georgi Malenkov, speaking for Russia, was whistling to keep up his courage when he told the world that the United States no longer had a monopoly on the hydrogen bomb. To date, Russia has staged three atomic explosions—the last one about two years ago.

Few Rules To Beat the Heat

Beat by the heat? Is this torrid weather sapping your energy from every body pore? Then State Health Officer George W. Cox has news for you.

"Observing a few simple hot weather living rules can mean relief from this sweltering heat," the doctor says. For instance:

Cut down on the amount of food eaten at any one time. Eat a few crackers or some fruit between meals if you get hungry. Many people feel better in hot weather if they eat fewer protein foods such as eggs, fish, and meat. Fruit and vegetables in season makes fine "cool comfort" diets.

Water is constantly being lost through perspiration and has to be replaced or painful heat cramps will result. Office workers probably get enough salt through ordinary eating, but laborers may need 2 or 3 extra teaspoonful each hot day.

Children who play hard and perspire freely need a little extra salt. Salted nuts or crackers is an agreeable way for them to get it. They won't object at all.

Don't wear clothes that hinder evaporation of perspiration, because that's the way body temperatures are kept normal. Wear loose, light clothing, preferably light in color.

Suit your exercise to your strength. Swimming is unquestionably the best summer sport, since it cools rather than overheats the body.

Take a warm bath before bedtime, and get eight hours of sleep regularly. An oscillating electric fan which keeps the air in motion without harmful direct drafts will make sleeping more comfortable and the next day's heat less oppressive.

Sun rays are most intense between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., so stay out of their way during those hours if possible. If not, be sure your head is covered.

Observing these rules can make for more summertime comfort, Dr. Cox points out. A June-to-October vacation in Alaska would help, too.

Personal income rate rises in May to $284,000,000,000.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Many letters are received on government's financial condition following request to raise national debt limit.

Many businessmen who felt federal spending would be reduced almost immediately were shocked and feel government's financial position must be worse than revealed.

Indicative of sober thought on the question is that few letters are sweeping protests against present taxes. Most explain suggested economies based on personal observations.

Many comments come from businessmen near military installations, pointing to fact Post Exchanges offer a wide range of merchandise at cut prices, to service men for their own use, but undoubtedly friends and members of families also benefit.

Naturally, this is competition local merchants cannot meet, and due to broad scope of merchandise sold, few businessmen escape this competition.

However, the protest is against the Armed Forces using money intended for defense in operating a wide scale merchandising venture. No one seems to know exactly just how big a merchandiser the Armed Forces have become. Some claim Army is now world's biggest merchant.

Post Exchanges sell for about cost, because overhead is paid by tax money, it is claimed.

Rent, light, heat, wages of operating personnel presumably come out of defense funds.

A piecing together of vague information indicates at least the equivalent of three divisions is employed in manning and servicing post exchanges.

This would mean an expenditure estimated at least $15 million per month on the pay and maintenance of officers, men and civilians, whose military activities consist of running a merchandising organization.

For years the Armed Forces sold tobacco, candy, other minor articles militarily classified as "comfort" items.

During World War II, Post Exchanges leaped to big operations, with experienced merchants commissioned right and left to operate them.

Today Armed Forces are huge department store operators.

Even fair traded items are sold at cost by the Armed Forces, as they are exempt from state laws. The average pay in the Armed Forces is on a par, or higher, than that paid by many cities to their police and firemen.

Yet no municipality makes their taxpayers provide and staff quarters to sell merchandise at cost to city employees.

Securing full facts would require an investigation. As evidenced by past experience, it is difficult to get full facts out of the Pentagon, yet opinion prevails that the information that would be uncovered merits an investigation. It is felt that if the Armed Services Post Exchanges were cut back to the old custom of handling accommodation "comfort" items, cost of operating U. S. defense establishments could be reduced at least $200 million per year, or about the amount the government needs to pay annual interest on $14½ billion worth of bonds, or about the amount of income tax paid by 350,000 families with two children and incomes of $5000 per year.

Read and Obey Highway Signs

America, generally speaking, is a sign-conscious nation.

We depend on the convenience of signs in thousands of phases of our daily lives. Signs tell us prices in stores, advertise merchandise in shop windows, speed up all our methods of conducting business.

And signs help us maintain order in countless little ways. For instance, if there were no signs it might be difficult — almost impossible — to keep people from walking on the grass, disposing of trash where they shouldn't, smoking in forbidden places, loitering in busy buildings, posting bills on telegraph poles, talking and shouting in libraries and hospitals.

Then, probably most important of all, we have traffic signs to guide and protect motorists and pedestrians on the nation's streets and highways. These signs are so important that often they are called "Signs of Life."

It's an appropriate name. Traffic signs can, and often do, save lives. Without "Signs of Life" — such as the "stop" sign at intersections, the diamond-shaped warning sign, the round and crossbuck railroad signs — it could become almost suicidal to ride in an automobile.

But "Signs of Life" can do the vital job for which they are intended only if people read and heed them. For this reason "Signs of Life" are being featured in the traffic program being conducted this month in Texas by the Texas Safety Association and the Department of Public Safety.

It's a program that deserves the support of every citizen, for these signs, if observed, may help you save a life — perhaps your own!

The slogan for the August program is one to remember — one to live by: "Signs of Life — Know Them, Obey Them."

HOME RUN

The devil was always challenging St. Peter to a game of baseball, but St. Peter never took him up. Finally, the Dodgers, the Giants and the Yanks all went to heaven. So naturally St. Peter called up the devil.

"Now I'll play you that game of baseball," he said.

"You'll lose," said the devil.

"You'll lose," replied St. Peter. "Right now I've got the greatest collection of baseball players you ever saw."

"You'll lose," said the devil.

"You'll lose!"

"What makes you so sure we'll lose?"

"Because," laughed the devil, "we got all the umpires down here."

Then I filed a Writ of Habeas Corpus in your behalf in Circuit Court, and we got denied. Next I filed an appeal with the State Supreme Court. There, too, we were denied."

"Finally, I filed a Writ in the highest court in the land, the United States Supreme Court. Again it was the same old story."

"Now, Jim, as your faithful counselor, I feel it is my duty to inform you that the only place left for you to file is the bars of your cell."

FLYING HOUSE

A man was complaining that he had just bought a prefabricated house, and that it had, in the end, cost him $50,000.

"Fifty thousand!" exclaimed one of his friends. "Isn't that an awful lot to pay for a prefab?"

"Yes," said the home-owner. "It wasn't so much to begin with, but I told that factory I wanted it right away, and they sent it to me air mail."

FEMALE COMMENTS

Comb and brush should always be kept scrupulously clean. Wash daily if possible, and always after your hair has been shampooed. The cleanest hair is hair that is groomed daily with clean comb and brush. There is no point in washing your hair if it is to be brushed with yesterday's dust and oil left on your comb and brush.

BOTTOMS UP!

A Last Drink — A Last Drive

The party's over—Bottoms Up! Let's get going!

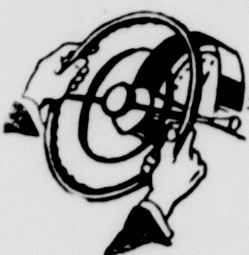

For thousands of men and women—children and pedestrians, too—that has been the beginning of the end. On the highway at night, where the road curved and the hazy driver drove straight ahead, there was another "Bottoms Up!" and the end of the last drive.

It's hard to convince a person who has had a few drinks that he shouldn't drive. Alcoholic stimulation engenders a false confidence in his ability. In reality, his reactions have slowed down, his perception and judgment lowered—driving alertness gone. In a later stage the road blurs, lights blind as he fights drowsiness, loses control.

Seldom is he endangering his life alone. He is also endangering the lives of those traveling with him and others on the streets and highways. In 35 states 166,179 drivers lost their licenses in 1952 for drinking and driving. Thirty-five per cent of all revocations are brought against drinking drivers.

If you have been drinking, either let someone else drive, leave your car and call a taxi, or stay where you are until your senses clear. Stay off the road!

Don't kid yourself into a "Bottoms Up" drive—it can be fatal!

Blueberries, Rice Mold Make Tasty Desserts

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

LUSCIOUS, firm, cultivated blueberries served in a sauce over a rice Bavarian pudding make a delicious, eye-appealing dessert. Best of all, in these hot days, it can be prepared in advance, and the pre-cooked rice used gives added texture to the pudding.

RICE BAVARIAN

(Makes 8 servings)

One-half package (¾ cup) pre-cooked rice, 1 tablespoon gelatin, 1¼ cups milk, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, slightly beaten, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon lemon rind, ½ cup cream, whipped.

Prepare pre-cooked rice as directed on package. Cook. Combine gelatin and ¼ cup of the milk in mixing bowl. Mix well. Combine sugars, salt and nutmeg in double boiler. Add remaining 1 cup of milk and egg and mix well. Place over hot water and cook, stirring constantly until mixture coats spoon. Pour over gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool. Add vanilla, lemon juice, and lemon rind. Chill until slightly thickened. Then fold in rice and whipped cream. Serve with Blueberry Sauce.

BLUEBERRY SAUCE

(Makes 2½ cups sauce)

Two cups fresh blueberries, 1 cup water, 4 teaspoons flour, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of cloves, 2 teaspoons butter, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

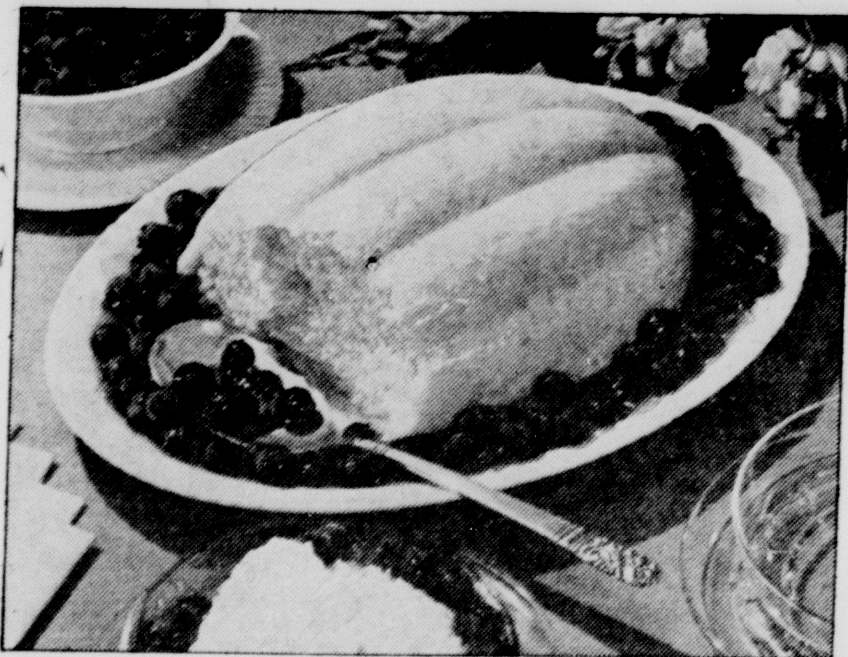

Bring 1 cup of the berries and water to a boil and simmer 3 minutes. Combine flour, sugar, salt, and cloves. Add to hot fruit. Add remaining berries, bring to a boil and cook 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Add butter and lemon juice. Serve warm, if desired.

Have the Russians the H-Bomb? President's Health Is Good

The recent announcement by Georgi Malenkov that Russia has ended the U. S. monopoly of the hydrogen bomb made good news for Russians and interesting news for Americans. The question which immediately arises is whether the United States has actually been making hydrogen bombs, and whether Russia is now producing them.

Those in position to know something about it think the U. S. has been producing hydrogen bombs, but only for a short time. It could be that the first U. S. hydrogen bomb was exploded in November. That would mean that the bombs were first produced in 1952. That conclusion is a rather widely-held one, though it is not based on any official announcement and could be an incorrect assumption.

If true, that would give the U. S. about a year's head start on the Reds. In answer to the question whether Russia has produced these bombs, the generally accepted theory on this side of the ocean is that the Reds have not. Perhaps they have found they could produce them, or maybe they have built an experimental bomb or two. But quite a number of U. S. officials refuse to believe that the Russians have yet detonated a hydrogen bomb.

Considerable Number
How many hydrogen bombs this country has stockpiled is not yet general knowledge, of course, but it is thought by well-informed officials that we have built a considerable number. In fact, there have been hints by AEC officials that the production of new weapons has developed even faster than had been expected.

The hydrogen bomb is not a fission-type bomb. Its explosion comes from fusion, not fission, as is the case with the atomic bomb. It requires such intense heat to be set off that an atom bomb is thought to be used to detonate it. The advantage the hydrogen bomb has over the atom bomb is that it can be built to practically any strength, whereas the atom bomb is limited by several factors—one of them being the self-detonation of the bomb if more than a certain amount of the component elements are assembled together.

The recent and recurrent crop of rumors about President Eisenhower's health started before his Colorado vacation plans were announced, but they are definitely old hat in Washington. When the vacation in Denver was announced, some of the rumors spread a little faster, but there is no evidence to support them.

It could happen that the President, or a Presidential physician, will blast the gossip and report on the state of health of the Chief Executive, particularly the status of his heart, which is the butt of so much speculation. But the President probably feels this unnecessary. After all, rumors about Presidents and their health have come, and gone for decades.

The President appears to be in fine physical condition. The fact that he is allowed to continue playing golf is proof that his heart is not very weak. The death of Senator Bob Taft probably shook Washington so solidly some people are a bit nervous, and reflect it by swapping words on Ike's health.

As August reaches the mid-way mark, business continues to be good and many production and selling records continue to be set. The forecasters of recession are still looking out the window for that dark cloud, which was to have been spurred on by a truce, but it hasn't arrived on schedule.

Actually, the 4,000,000th automobile rolled off assembly lines in the second week in August, and industrial reports from most segments of business were good reading. Automobile production for 1953 is now estimated at between 5,500,000 and 6,000,000 cars, and some companies are already retooling for the 1954 models.

There is of course, differences of opinion between used car dealers, finance companies, banks, and others on the one hand, and automobile producers on the other, as to whether 6,000,000 cars can be sold this year. The auto companies say they can, but admit it will take some old-fashioned selling. In either event, bargains will be numerous in the next few months.

Ike Builds GOP Power Machine

President Dwight D. Eisenhower is building up a Republican party and administration which is going to be very difficult to beat. In fact those Democrats who just three months ago were whooping it up over apparent blunders, by the "divided" Republicans, are ready to admit that Ike now has the situation pretty well in hand.

The last six weeks of the recent session of Congress showed the influence Eisenhower is getting over both the party and Congress. In those final weeks the President received just about everything he requested from Congress, got a truce in Korea, and managed to keep peace within the party.

Not only that, but the President showed his political insight by proposing to amend the labor laws, to win over large blocs of labor support. He succeeded in getting legislation passed to have the country admit over 200,000 refugees in just two weeks of effort. (That was a major victory in his bid to win support from foreign born segments of the population).

And he has shown a willingness to move promptly to check any threat of recession. If he can continue to achieve success in all these fields and hold the Republican party together, he is sure to win supporters. If he can win the supporters of large segments of labor, of internationalist Democrats who are traditionally wary of GOP foreign policies, but who now support Ike, and of other once-Democratic blocs, like the Negroes, he will have built a powerful machine.

It appears that the President is on his way. And the Democratic candidate in 1956 might have a much more difficult job than Adlai Stevenson had in 1952 — and that was a difficult one.

COST OF WAR

An unofficial estimate of the cost of the Korean War places the U. S. dead at more than 22,000, out of a total casualty list of 140,000, about $15,000,000,000 were spent to help pay for over 1,250,000 tons of artillery ammunition, over 1,800,000,000 bullets and grenades, 800 tanks and 40,000 trucks, more than 2,000,000 shells for naval guns and hundreds of thousands of tons of bombs. It also caused a general rearmament program, for which the Government has spent, to date, over $101,000,000,000.

INCOME TAXES

Personal income taxes in the last fiscal year soared above fiscal 1952 by $3,471,108,158.40, most of it being in taxes withheld from pay checks. An increase of only $44,000,000 was recorded from income taxes collected otherwise.

POCKET VETO

President Eisenhower, using the "pocket veto," which made his action immune from Congressional and overriding, killed the bill to exempt movie tickets from the Federal admission tax. He explained that the Government needed revenue and the exemption would favor one class of taxpayers over others. He disclosed that he would move next year for a cut on all admission taxes.

TV

The number of television stations in this country has doubled since the Federal "freeze" was lifted in April, 1952. There are now 217 stations operating, 53 of which are on UHF—Ultra High Frequency.

SOCIAL SECURITY

President Eisenhower has asked Congress, when it meets again, to consider expanding social security coverage to 10,500,000 professional and other self-employed persons, employees of state and local governments, clergymen, and several other groups.

SPARKLER SETS $50,000 FIRE

San Francisco, Cal. — A lighted sparkler, tossed by two boys into a cardboard box, set a fire in an Oakland market, which took 35 firemen to bring under control. Result: 22 children injured, one man half-blinded and a Chinese market badly burned. Financial damages $50,000.

BOLT EXPLODES SHELL DUMP

Chicago — A bolt of lightning touched off an army ammunition dump on Chicago's northwest side recently, rocking a half-mile square area with a tremendous fire-works display. Exploding 120-m.m. shells set off brilliant orange flashes in the sky, backed by the blazing red of a burning anti-aircraft installation building. No injuries were reported.

SHOT CLIMBING FENCE

Emmitsburg, Md. — Maurice Kellholtz, 57-year-old retired restaurant man, was fatally wounded when his shotgun, which he had carried with him on a fishing trip, accidentally went off as he was climbing a fence. His wife and son found him, fatally wounded in the abdomen, near the fence, after they went in search of him when he failed to return home for dinner.

SPECIAL SESSION?

Leaders of Congress will meet with President Eisenhower on or about September 22, to consider the necessity of a special session. Ticklers

By George

"I told him to get coarse-ground coffee for an old lard bucket and he brings this coffee for a percolator!"

Good tonic for August listlessness is a visit to a paint and paper store. Even if you have no paint-up project of your own, the signs of make-ready activity will get into your blood. And a look at the customers as they leave the store, a 'mission accomplished' expression on their faces, positively fires the imagination.

Here's a young husband with a quart bucket of soft green paint, a brush and a bottle of thinner in hand. He waves gaily to an acquaintance: "Come to see us," he calls out, feeling like a true householder.

A middle-aged man plunges out the door with a small roll of linoleum flooring under his arm, his mind racing ahead of him up the street, into his car and back home to the job he has assigned himself over the week-end.

An energetic matron emerges with some wallpaper samples, wearing the rapt expression of a person about to take off on a long-awaited vacation.

It must be fun to work in a paint store, where each sale promises excitement and adventure for the buyer. Where for a few dollars householders start the hopeful process of refinishing some small trouble spot; where a few rolls of inexpensive wallpaper can make a young wife look like a bride again; where an older couple can get the sense of beginning life anew.

We've seen that look of purposeful anticipation in only a few other places: A man buying sports equipment is likely to wear it as he examines a gun or a rod. A woman who sews at home wears it as she fingers the new fabrics, turns the pages of a pattern book. It must be the promise of accomplishment that makes these purchases more than exchange of goods for cash. Anyway the tonic's there.

AUSTIN: Texas politics appear calm on top.

Only an occasional ripple indicates the seething turmoil under the surface.

Such a ripple is the announcement by George W. Sandlin of Austin, secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee, that the group will meet September 11 in Mineral Wells.

Small space was occupied in the newspapers by the announcement, which was casual in tone.

Sandlin said the purpose of the gathering was mainly "finding out what the members might have on their minds."

What they might have on their minds might be plenty. It would involve whether the Shivers "conservative" people would retain control of the Democratic Party in Texas, or whether the "liberal-loyalist" faction would regain control.

Hopefuls in the political races of next year were concerned — especially prospective candidates for state and national offices.

POLITICALLY AND OTHERWISE, a great deal depended on the governor's decision as to whether he will run for another term, seek some other office, or retire from the public service.

Several potential candidates are waiting for the governor's announcement before completing their own plans.

Some of the "experts" here said Shivers will try for a third elective term as governor, because in that position he could exert his influence on the "conservative" side with respect to national politics.

A meeting of the executive committee at this time indicates strongly that the political forces are beginning early to prepare for next year's three-sided campaigns, with competition from both Democratic factions and from the Republicans.

Otherwise, there was the business of replacing two members of the executive committee.

Mrs. L. E. Tennyson of Clifton resigned because of illness in her family. Peyton McKnight of Quitman left the committee to take a position with Jack Porter of Houston, oil man and national GOP committeeman.

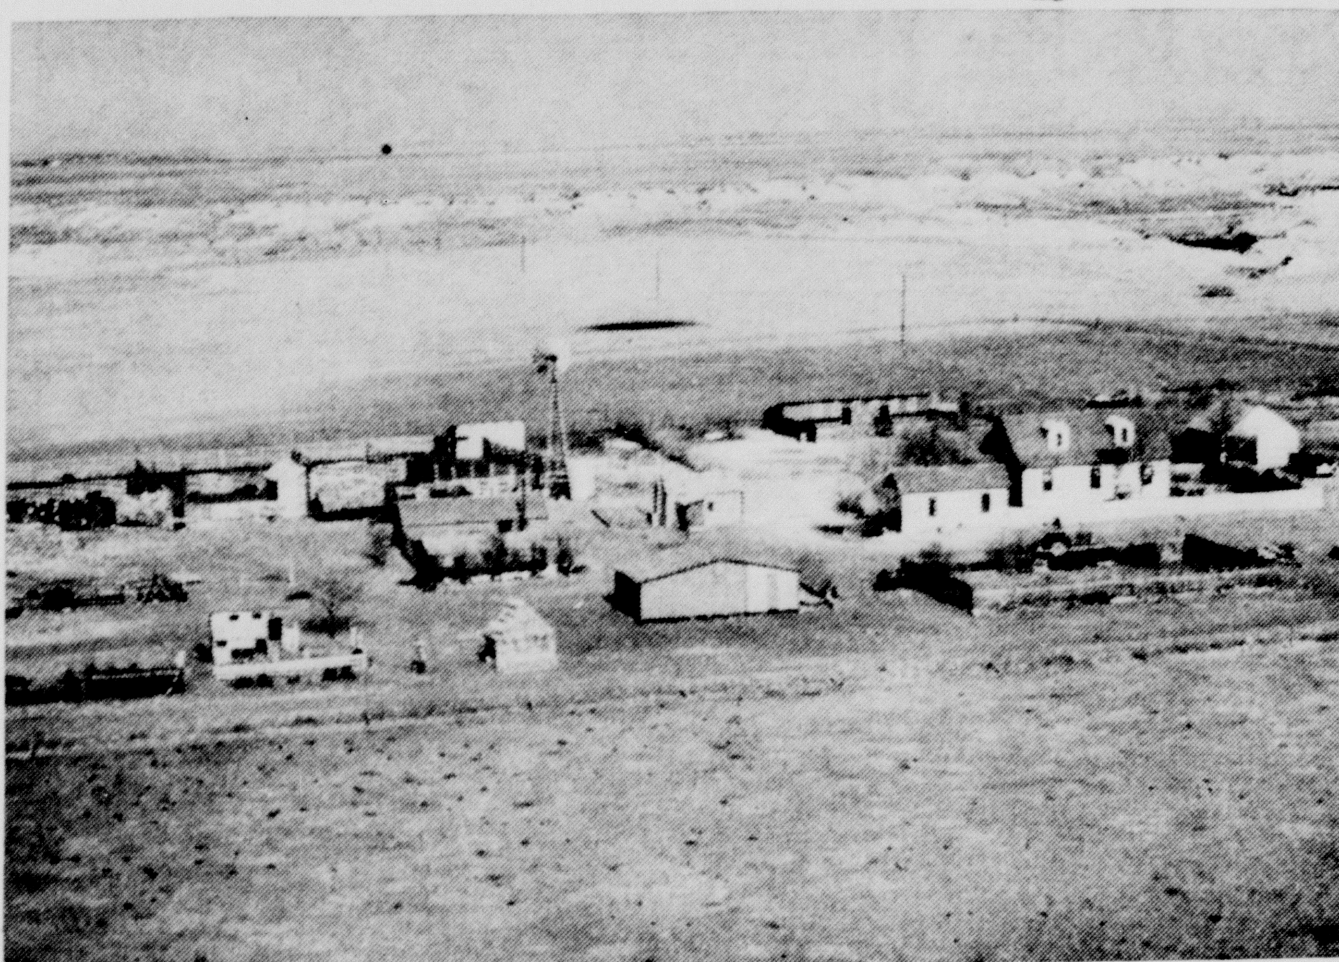

Sandlin's announcement of the Mineral Wells meeting came while Shivers was attending the national governor's conference at Seattle, where President Eisenhower expressed his views on states rights.

The federal government, said the president, should never undertake to do for the states anything that the states can do for themselves.

This was what most of the governors wanted to hear. Shivers, chairman of the conference, had said that the problem of "bringing the government closer to the people" was considered by most of the delegates as the most important question before the meeting.

The proceedings were scheduled to begin August 17.

Who Is Owner of "The Mystery Farm" of This Week

Mystery Farm No. 21 offers some contrast in the rolling plains a scenic-hill backdrop. In the foreground are plenty of barns, lots and machinery to help you identify the place. If you have no idea whose place it is, try to determine the approximate location of the farm from Canyon. If you know who the owner is, give him a ring and tell him his farm or ranch is the mystery place in The Canyon News. When he calls at The News office and identifies it he will be given a free picture of the place.

of Colorado agreed that there should be decentralization of government, and that the nation is still in danger of "drifting into socialism."

From Seattle came an indication on the part of some for Shivers to enter the presidential race in 1956.

Louisiana's Governor R. F. Kennon made the suggestion to reporters there — a thought that has been expressed in Texas and elsewhere before.

Everett L. Looney of Austin, president of the State Bar of Texas, has removed himself as co-counsel for District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice.

Looney gave two reasons for his withdrawal: first, he is ill and unable to appear at the ouster proceedings; and second, some of the directors of the state bar felt that it was improper for him, as president, to appear in the Laughlin case.

Looney called for a special meeting of the bar directors for August 13 to determine what action if any the lawyers' organization should take in the Laughlin case.

Eleven South Texas attorneys petitioned the Supreme Court to hear a list of complaints against the Alice judge and to consider removing him from office.

The proceedings were scheduled to begin August 17.

Laughlin is accused, among other things, of interfering with a grand jury investigation into election matters in his district.

ANNEXATION POWERS of the cities is being studied by the Texas Legislative Council.

Laws governing annexation have not been changed for 30 years, and there is need for revision, in the opinion of many, including Representative Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio.

Bell told the council that "cities should grow in an orderly way, but we ought to prevent the incorporation of 'parasitic' areas seeking to avoid city taxes while obtaining the benefits of a nearby big city."

On the other hand, cities should be stopped from annexing farm territory, or from expanding where there would be no benefit offered to residents of the area.

Findings of the Council will be referred to the next Legislature.

Scheduled in federal court is the National Labor Relations Board's attack on the Texas "right to work" law.

Federal Judge R. E. Thomason of El Paso ordered Attorney General John Ben Shepperd to appear and testify in regard to an injunction suit filed by the NLRB.

The board by its suit is undertaking to prevent the attorney general from enforcing parts of the law as applied to a San Antonio collective bargaining case.

Texas' law in this instance is in conflict with the national labor relations act, the NLRB contends.

Behind the NLRB action are two injunctions forbidding the International Fur and Leather Workers Union of the United States and Canada from participating in an election to be held by workers of the Nelson Tanning Corporation of San Antonio.

Under present Texas laws labor unions are prohibited from operating in the state without first filing a detailed financial and operational report with the secretary of state. And union organizers must file a report and secure an organizers' card before conducting their soliciting activities in Texas.

ANOTHER TEXAS LAW under attack is the driver responsibility act.

The test is going to the U. S. Supreme Court.

D. C. Gillaspie of San Antonio is contesting the law, after registration of his family car was suspended because his son, who was driving it, figured in a traffic accident.

Under the law as it now stands, the son must show financial responsibility before the car can be driven by anyone.

The Texas supreme court upheld validity of the law, but Associated Justice G. B. Smedley cleared the way for the case to go to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Gillaspie argues that the sections of the law applying in his case are harsh and unreasonable and nullify the entire statute.

Construction in Texas for the first half of the year was greater than expected, reported Richard C. Henshaw, Jr., of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Non-residential building more than counterbalanced a slump in home construction, the report said.

At the same time, Texas Employment Commission reported job placements for June above that of May, but behind that of June last year.

The drop was attributed to payroll cuts in federal and defense establishments, the drought, and other factors.

SHORT SNORTS: Frank S. Maddox has resigned as assistant state highway engineer to accept a position with the Portland Cement Association at San Antonio.

David Irons, assistant attorney general and president of the Texas Public Employees Association, will go to Washington to head up a subversive activities investigating unit of the U. S. Attorney General's Department.

Pay raises of $50 per month have been granted to some of its employees by the Texas Library and Historical Commission, probably the first pay increases under the new appropriation law.

A BLACK DAY

Harpden, England. — Taking the family for a ride, a father asked his son to take the pet dog for a walk while he fixed the car, which had broken down. While the boy was away, the auto, still in gear, shot forward and wrecked a gas lamp on the country road. The father took one whiff of the escaping gas and collapsed. The car overturned, and the mother received a black eye from the jolt. When the boy returned and saw the scene, he fainted. The dog howled and ran away.

He died of shock and loss of blood.

"Only the New Holland could handle my corn and sorghum!"

Says Dr. Chas. F. Webb, Quinlac Farms
R. 1, Oakfield, Tennessee

The New Holland Forage Harvester chops and loads up to 20 tons of silage per hour.

"Until last year, I harvested my silage mostly by hand using an old-fashioned binder. Then I decided to try a forage harvester. Three makes were demonstrated to me, including the New Holland.

"The corn and sorghum in my silage crop was unusually large—stalks ran as high as fifteen feet and up to two inches in diameter at the butt. Of the three forage harvesters, the New Holland was the only one that would make a round without stopping continuously to unclog the machine.

"I bought the New Holland and harvested approximately 45 acres, which averaged about 40 tons per acre, without any difficulty.

"I am particularly pleased with the reversible feature on the header and the large throat clearance at the fan enabling the machine to avoid clogging up and other delays. I am also pleased with the turning feature of the discharge spout as I use both trailers and trucks to haul silage."

Ask your New Holland dealer The New Holland is a compact machine designed for smooth operation... yet many owners report high capacity, too. Ask us for a demonstration on your own farm.

Just Between You, Me . . . and the Gatepost . . .

One of the worthwhile projects that got underway here last week is the Christian Rural Overseas Program which supplies both food and clothing to hungry people overseas. The group met at a breakfast session and selected Truett McGregor as chairman of the drive. McGregor, although extremely busy at this time, is a good man for the job. He got wonderful results as chairman of the Red Cross drive. Co-chairmen of the local CROP organization are Rev. Win Matsler and Roland Black. The group will be working for a total of 30 head of cattle or enough money to purchase this many cattle.

Perhaps it's jumping the gun just a little but if you've been around West Texas State College campus lately during the morning hours you have probably noticed the band music. If you get a look at some of the twirlers down there and hear the music too, and still haven't thought what a short time it is until a new school season and football games are with us, you're living in the past, at least a few months so.

If the shower that came Thursday night had come slowly and really soaked in where it fell, it would have been a good starter as a breaker of the drouth. Nearly 1 1/2 inches were recorded here and it was a great help but it did rain hard and a great deal of water ran to the low places. Any way you look at it the beginning of the end of the drouth is probably here.

John Brazzil, Randall County Agent and head of 4-H club work here, is taking some of the boys down to College Station for a few days. Although they will only be gone for a few days, it's a wonderful trip for the club boys. Two other people who will probably believe the trip is longer than it really is will be Mrs. Brazzil and the couple's young daughter, Connie Faye.

When you stop to think about it a moment we really have some progressive business people here in town. W. J. Wooten and Charlie Donnell recently came up with a rather novel idea in giving the occupants of five lucky cars free passes to the movies. It works like this: You attend the drive-in and between the time the first show begins and intermission the license numbers of five cars are selected. Each occupant of each of these cars receives a free pass to the Olympic or Canyon Drive-In. Worth Jennings is working out a suit sale that will help several men get a good suit each for a greatly reduced price, and this fall several students at West Texas State will be receiving help through scholarships awarded by Taylor & Sons Country Store. Yes sir, some of the best merchants of the entire U. S. are right here in Canyon.

Yes, and another thing, Canyon will soon have a dial system working on the telephones. From all reports the work on this project is about up with the schedule and that schedule is set up to give people dial system service about November. At first that may seem like a long way in the future but when you stop and think it's really only a couple of months, then a week and some days.

One of the things people never get used to, in other people is a long, sad face. Recently one business man met another on the street and said, "How are you this morning?"

"Fine," answered the other.

"Then you ought to notify your face," answered the first merchant. "it looks like the last rose of summer."

WARWICK'S

Last year Americans spent a record $11.7 billion for recreation, topping the 1950 and 1951 figures by $373 million. But some items, like baseball and the theater, took a considerable drop from previous years. Some experts blame the popularity of TV for this. Although the chart above, based on recent Commerce Department figures, does not indicate it, TV and radio repair bills were $56 million higher in 1952 than in the previous year. And, of course, Americans last year spent more on the entertainment the screen cannot bring into the home, like horse and dog racing.

Stop of War Does Not End Upset Economy

The end of fighting in Korea should mean that the living standard of the American people can be increased more rapidly.

For the aftermath will increase the purchasing power of the consumers; inject new brains, brawn and capital into the production of civilian goods; facilitate the construction of new homes, schools and highways, and give a freer, wider range to the development and distribution of new products.

The truth is that large defense outlays hurt the nation's economy. Much productive effort is wasted on goods that either are shot away or deteriorate.

On the average, the output of the American economy increases about 3 per cent a year. In a normal year consumers get a large share of this increase. But when military expenditures are expanded rapidly, civilian consumers must pull in their belts. A $10 billion outback in military outlays would mean that it should be possible to increase civilian production by a corresponding amount.

Demand Reduced
Of course when government spending drops, the total demand for goods and services is reduced. Many people feel that this will mean a slump or depression. They fail to realize that lower government expenditures mean that taxes can be reduced and people can, thus, have more money available for private spending. They also disregard the almost endless ways in which business, through acceleration of research, marketing of new products, timing and production of sales and flexible debt management, can meet the economic consequences of reduced military expenditures. And if these factors aren't enough, the Federal government could be expected to make full use of its corrective programs in the event of a recession.

But let's take a look at the picture of military outlays. Before Korea they totaled less than $15 billion. In the fiscal year 1953 the total was $44.4 billion. Because of the international situation, military spending is almost certain, even under the most favorable assumptions, to remain at a level much higher than before Korea. A more or less permanent level of military spending somewhere in the $30 to $35 billion range is generally predicted. Thus a cut-back to that level from the $43 billion estimated military spending for 1954 and the reported $40 billion estimate for 1955, would mean a gap of $10 billion. The question is: Can civilian demand be increased sufficiently to support a $10 billion boost in production for non-military goods and services? The answer places a premium on consumer purchasing power—new and additional consumer purchasing power.

Tax Reductions
At least part of that new purchasing power needed to boost civilian demand and production is expected from tax reductions. The present tax rates are a serious deterrent not only to expanded buying but also to investment expansion and risk-taking in general. It is well to remember that the spending cuts after World War II were accompanied by only minor tax cuts. On the other hand, the country now is faced with a series of automatic tax reductions which will help to stimulate the economy.

The so-called excess profits tax is scheduled to expire Jan. 1, 1954, and personal income taxes are to drop approximately 10% at the same time. On April 1, 1954, a five-point cut in corporate income tax, 52% to 47% is due. Several excise taxes are scheduled to be reduced at the same time.

And there are additional stimulants for the post-Korea economy in the offing. The low war and post-war level of public construction has left a tremendous backlog of needed public works. Because of this State and local government spending has been growing by about $1 to $2 billion a year and will continue.

Needs

New highway needs could require average expenditures of as high as $10 billion annually over the next 10 years. Enormous school needs may require a $10 billion building program over the next eight years. Other factors, including population growth and the trends towards a one-class market of prosperous middle-income people, larger families and more leisure time, will have a stimulating effect on the economy.

With all the favorable factors, however, account must be taken of the problems that will demand the best skills of both private and public authorities to solve. It must be remembered that the vast backlog of demand for durable goods and housing, which existed after World War II, is not with us this time. Nor have we had the great expansion in liquid assets—bank savings and government bonds—that took place during the war against the Axis. Another unfavorable factor is the decline in farm prices resulting from the recovery of agriculture abroad and our artificial farm price support program.

In summary, it would be wise to assume that there will be no readjustment problems if defense spending is cut substantially. But there could be no more dangerous philosophy for the future of private enterprise and a free society than to assume that government expenditures cannot be cut and that high military outlays should be continued indefinitely on a sort of latter day WPA basis. Both government and business should concern themselves with the problems but there is no reason for making the government into a directing and regimenting agency.

Enviably Future

Of course, the American economy can never be perfectly stabilized. Growth, change and uncertainty are inescapable in any dynamic economy, but by the intelligent use of proper economic policies, coupled with the existence of social security guaranteeing a minimum standard of living, the American economy can assure itself of a most enviable future.
